

National Conference

Hosted by

TATA INSTITUTE OF SOCIAL SCIENCES
MUMBAI

28th - 29th March 2025

About Organisers

The Tata Institute of Social Sciences (TISS) was established in 1936 as the Sir Dorabji Tata Graduate School of Social Work. In 1944, it was renamed as the Tata Institute of Social Sciences. The year 1964 was an important landmark in the history of the Institute, when it was declared Deemed to be a University under Section 3 of the University Grants Commission (UGC) Act 1956.

Since its inception, the Vision of the TISS has been to be an institution of excellence in higher education that continually responds to changing social realities through the development and application of knowledge, towards creating a people-centred, ecologically sustainable and just society that promotes and protects dignity, equality, social justice and human rights for all.

The Indian Association of Teachers of Library and Information Science (IATLIS), founded on 19th December 1969, is a national professional organization dedicated to advance library and information science education, research, and training across frontiers, as well as to develop collaboration and partnership with Indian information industry, national and international leading-edge libraries, library and information networks, and library and information science schools.

The association also supports the publication of relevant books and journals, organizes conferences, seminars, and colloquia to foster the development and dissemination of innovative ideas, and provides consultancy services in the field. Additionally, IATLIS focuses on the training and professional development of library science educators and advocates for their welfare across India. Through these efforts, the association plays a crucial role in shaping the academic and professional growth of library and information science education in the country.

Academic Programmes of SDTM Library

The Sir Dorabji Tata Memorial Library at TISS is renowned for its innovative initiatives and capacity-building programs. In 2011, the Centre for Library and Information Management Studies (CLIMS) was established to offer academic programs in Library and Information Science.

In alignment with the National Education Policy (NEP) 2020, the CLIMS has revised its syllabus for all academic programs to ensure a future-ready, multidisciplinary approach. Currently, the library offers the following programs:

1. PG Diploma in Digital Library and Information Management

Launched in 2010, this one-year dual-mode program includes two semesters with 3 weeks of on-campus contact classes and 15 weeks of e-learning per semester. Conducted at the Mumbai campus, the program accommodates 25 students annually. This cutting-edge program has successfully graduated 13 batches, providing a proven track record of its success.

2. Master of Library and Information Science (MLIS)

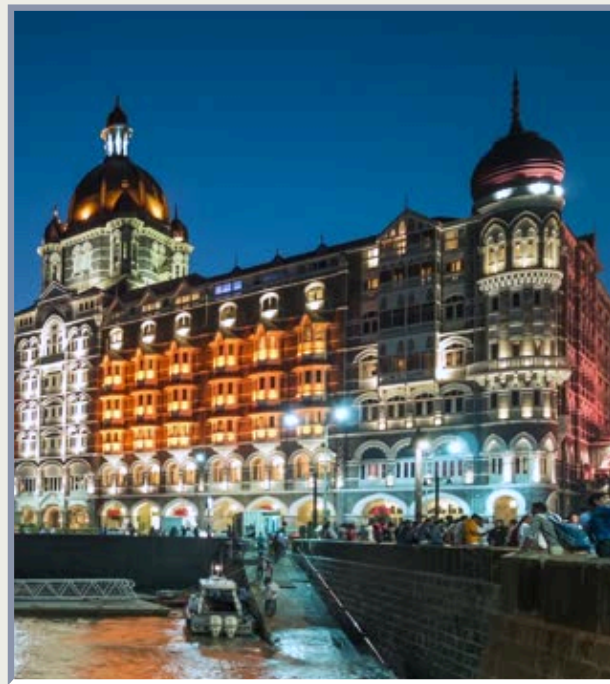

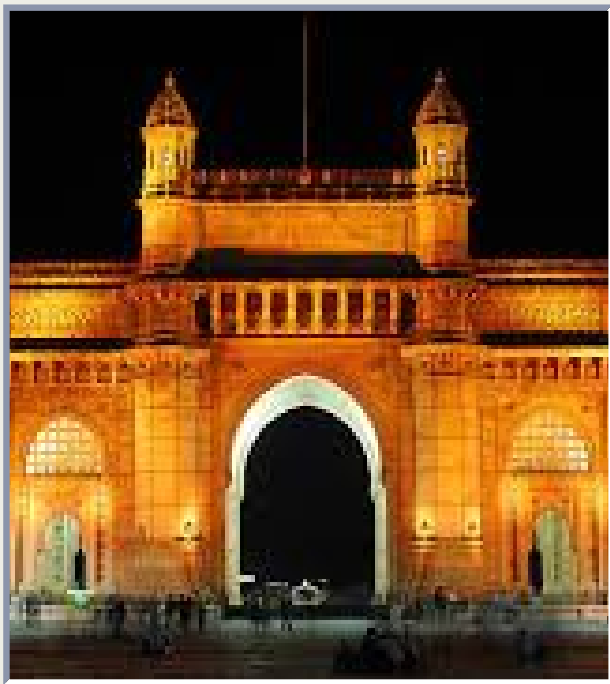

Introduced in 2013, this full-time, 80-credit master's program admits 15 students annually. It includes 24 core courses, an internship, a capstone project and a dissertation. Designed to meet the growing demand for skilled librarians adept at integrating ICT into learning, it offers promising career prospects.

3. Doctor of Philosophy (PhD)

Launched in 2012, the PhD program has drawn significant interest from professionals in various sectors, including NGOs, schools, and academic libraries. The program has successfully awarded 13 Ph.Ds with 12 more candidates currently engaged in their Ph.Ds at various stages.
